In other portions of the cotton belt there has been a decline in condition. There was an excess of rainfall condition. There was an excess of rainfall during the month over the whole breadth, except in Louisiana and Florida and a greater part of Texas, and this excess of mosture was, as a rule, accompanied by temperature below normal.

The last week of the month was characterized by a further excess of rain, but it was accompanied by heat conditions above normal, and if this combination of meteorological conditions wrought any injury

The crop is quite generally and, especially in the Atlantic and Eastern Guit States. The plant is small, and on account of the drought at the season of planting and excess of rains later, which dried the working out, the stand is imperfect over considerable areas. In the Carolinas the heavy rains of the month caused some shedding of bolisand a failure of the plant to fruit well.

shelding of bolis and a failure of the plant to fruit well.

In Georgia and Alabama some improvement is noted, though the dropping off of forms has followed local excess of moisture. The plant is small and late, but fruiting well. The crop in Mississippi is late, but making good growth with favorable weather, and taking on forms rapidly. Louisiana returns are variable. There has been some damage from local drought, but more from the excess of rain. In some sections the plant has made too much growth to the injury of the bottom crop.

The decline in Texas is mainly the result of drought, though rains at the close of the month may have been sufficient to prevent permanent injury. The presence

Corn has railen off two points during the month, the decline being almost en-tirely in the States of the Ohio Valley and the Northwest. The decline was due to dry weather, approaching drought in por-tions of Indiana and Illinois, and low tem-perature in all sections of the corn-surplus districts. There was sufficient rainfall in Energy and Nebracka with some local exlate in most sections, the result of the poor start and the absence of hot, forcing weather during July. Unless August should prove unusually favorable and the season be a long one there is grave danger that the erop may mature properly. While the general average is reasonably high correspondents quality by emphasizing the necessity for a favorable season from this date on. In the surplus States the averages are: Ohio, is; Indiana, 8s; Illinoss, 8s; Iowa, 9j; Missouri, 8j; Kansas, 8s; Nebraska, 89. Oats have improved two points during the month and the figures of condition indicate a medium yield per acre. The blight which ruined the crop last year and was feared again at the date of the July report, has appeared in but a few isolated localities. The weather at the close of the growing season and during harvest was generally favorable, and the late growth was sufficient to largely offset the poor start and deficient stand. The cool weather which relarded corn growth in the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys was favorable to this cereal, materially selvancing State averages. Barley shows improvement and promises a large crop in most of the districts of heavy production. California returns condition at 100, or practically perfect. In New York and Wisconsin, however, the prospect is less favorable.

The first return for buckwheat is the highest for eight years past, with a slight increase in the acreage.

The condition of potatoes is returned as remarkably high, scoring a gain of a point over last month. In fifteen years previous to the present season August shows condition higher than July but once. Should the present prospect be continued the crop will be one of unusual proportions.

DUEL TO THE DEATH.

By telegraph to the Dispatch.]

Mempins, Tenn., August 10.—A desperate duel to the death took place Saturday evening at Norfolk Landing, Miss. twenty-eight miles below Memphis, news of which reached this city late last night. The principals were D. B. Wall, a young man from Wilhamson county, Tenn., who was employed as manager of R. H. Shaw's plantation, and a negro maned Reed, who had been working on the place. Mr. Wall and Reed had a dispute about the length of time the negro had worked, and failing to agree Reed left the store, carrying a shot-gun, which he tried to hade from Mr. Wall. The latter secured a revolver and started after the negro, but as he emerged from the store the negro shot him in the right side, making a large hole. Wall was mortally wounded, but he was game. He emptied his revolver at the negro, when reloaded, and was preparing to fire again, when he fell dead. The negro went to earth at the same unstant, one of the balls from Wall's pistol having passed through his body. Wall was only twenty-three years old and unmarried. The negro was about twenty years old. His wound is recorded as mortal. (By telegraph to the Dispatch. about twenty years old. His wound is re-garded as mortal.
